We specialize in enterprise Web application development and support services, placing professionals in contract and direct-hire positions.

What does this mean for you?

Efficient Recruiting: Our comprehensive recruiting process, coupled with gaining a thorough understanding of client needs at the onset, results in submittal of only well-qualified, precisely-matched technical candidates. To ensure access to top-notch professionals, we leverage our involvement in the IT community and stay abreast of new opportunities to tap into resources to continually build our candidate bandwidth. We bring forward only the right talent to meet our clients' exact needs.

In 2008, 1 out of every 2.6 candidates was interviewed. Of those interviewed, 1 out of 2.25 was hired.

Experienced Consultants: Over the past 15 years, InfoTech has built a strong, competent pool of candidates with best practice expertise. In order to meet client IT business goals, our candidates must have deep technical skills and demonstrate a cultural fit.

Over the past three years, 64% of InfoTech consultants are currently or were on assignment for more than nine months and 41% for over one year. Only 4.5% of our engaged consultants are or were on assignment less than four months.

Relationship-Oriented Approach: Our clients value the importance we place on building relationships. We go beyond trying to get a placement; we team-up with our clients for a long-term partnership. Doing so allows us to wholly understand not only client business and technical needs, but also the cultural environment to maximize results and client return on investment.

During the past five years, 100% of our clients used us for multiple engagements.
